By Jewish Telegraphic Agency CHICAGO—Isaac Adler, 96, one of the three surviving firemen who fought the great Chicago fire of 1871, died last week. He joined the Chicago fire department in 1870, the year before the fire, and continued with the department until his retirement in 1893.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner, Jew's Friend

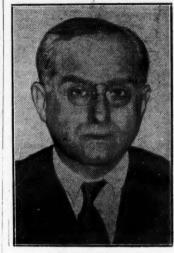

Jewish Telegraphic Agency STOCKHOLM—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, famed British pacifist and head of the British League of Nations Union, who last week was announced as the Nobel peace prize vinner for 1937, has been an outstanding friend of the Jews.

Prominent among Lord Cecil's humanitarian activities have been his opposition to the Nazi regime in Germany, his service as chairman of the governing body created by the League of Nations in 1933 to deal with the refugee problem and his support of the Jewish homeland in Palestine.

He has made many statements in support of Jewish colonization in Palestine, and he succeeded Lord Balfour as patron of the Anglo-Palestine Club.

In Vote Against Ghetto Benches

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LWOW, Poland-Rector Kulcznski of Lwow University announced last week "ghetto benches" would not be introduced, after a majority of the students had voted in a plebiscite to oppose the segregation of Jews.

The rector, in a statement, declared, however, that he thought it impossible to allow full freedom in the choice of seats in lecture rooms. He appealed to the Nationalist students to sit on the right side and Jews on the left side, leaving to other students freedom of choice.

Emphasizing that he regarded this as the only way to preserve order, the rector declared that if the measure was ineffectual he would close down the university. The Jewish Student Corporation at Lwow University was dissolved by the rector for agitating against segregation. The rector recently dissolved Nationalist student corporations.

Lwow Students ZIONIST LEADER CHARGES WASTE, RESIGNS POSTS

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Charging "mismanagement, waste, extravagance and misinformation to the public" in administration of the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund), Isidore D. Morrison, pioneer American Zionist leader, last week announced his resignation from the fund's ad-

Palestine Appeal board, on which he represented the Keren Hayesod.

Mr. Morrison's resignation, effective immediately, was made known in a letter to Louis Lipsky, chairman of the Keren Hayesod aministrative committee.

Alleged efforts of the Keren Hayesod management to dominate the campaign of the United Palestine Appeal, through proposed appointment of Robert Silverman as its sole national director in 1938 were an immediate factor behind Mr. Morrison's resignation. Mr. Morrison, an attorney, has been active in the American Zionist movement for forty years, having been among the founders of the Federation of American Zionists in 1897.

In an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Mr. Morrison voiced the view that various Zionist organizations here had outlived their usefulness and should either be reorganized along entirely different lines or scrapped. He said the Zionist Organization of America, the Mizrachi Organization and the Poale-Zionist (Laborite) Organization and the Poale-Zionist (Laborite) Organization and the Poale-Zionist (Laborite) anization had degenerated into political, propaganda bodies.

LONDON-The Nazi Party, asserting the Jews should show "gratitude" that lynch law was not used to solve the Jewish problem, has declared its intention of carry-ing through "to the years and" the separation of Jews from the German population.

In its latest statement of policy on the question, issued in Berlin, the official National Socialist Party Correspondence says that "in pursuing the policy of complete separation from Jewry, the Reich Government does not engage in a policy of persecution of a minority, but is merely concerned with changing the mode of life of the German people."

The news agency holds German Jewry "has not deserved such leniency, nor does it show any grati-tude for this policy of the German Government," citing what it calls "anti-German atrocity propaganda in almost all the civilized countries of the world."

"The separation of the German people from Jewry took place in Germany in a form which is com-pletely different from the more radical methods adopted in Poland. This must be emphasized all the more since many representatives of the foreign press in Germany do not seem to have realized it.

"You can editorialize on the demand of congregations for young adonises only to fill their pulpits. A man can be the most brilliant scholar, the most effective orator, but if he's not near six feet in height and doesn't present a phyturn away from Clark Gable, then they won't even ask him to come down for a trial sermon." Now this young rabbi has a very pleasing countenance, although you may have guessed that his height is something under six feet. for facial expression and ease of platform manner, he is right up in the top row with such stellar performers as Stephen S. Wise, and Ferdinand Isserman.

I personally find that most young rabbis are so sincere and so conscientuous that we of the younger generation can sit right down to the table with them and jump right into conversation without fear of insulting anybody's dignity, or without having to speak euphemistically, through the nose or as if on needles and pins.

Other subjects the rabbi expressed himself on were: the feeling that most United States Jews are against partition; that the demand of the younger generation for more knowledge of Jewsih history is the most encouraging sign of presentday Jewish life; that fascism may be even closer in the United States than "just around the corner", and that practically every young re-form rabbis is as much a disciple of Mordecai M. Kaplan's as his own wife.

Now if I were a rabbi or even an editor, I would moralize on the fact that the rise of such honest and straightforward young men bodes well for the future of reform Jewry, but I'll let it go and save you the spiritual unlift.

Morrison Charges Deserve An Answer

THE seething dissatisfaction with the egotistic management of national Jewish organizations under the aegis of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise has erupted into public print with the resignation of Isidore D. Morrison, Zionist of the vintage of 1897, from two important Palestinian posts.

Exactly what behind-the-scenes moves caused the explosion can be judged only from the published reports. Morrison's charges or inefficiency and waste tend to affirm the accusations of such men as the late Jacob de Haas that the Zionist hierarchy rotated the paying jobs among their cohorts, exacting, as in a political machine, blind loyalty and unswerving fealty not to the organization, or its policies, but to the political mas-

At the risk of doing a great injustice to Rabbi Wise, and until he replies with a factual denial, Morrison's indictment of the hierarchy must be given full credence. He is no fledgeling crying out against injustice or corruption, and his Zionist loyalties have not been and are not now being questioned. Morrison, to be specific, objects to the elevation of Robert Silverman to the leadership of the United Jewish Appeal, calling to light Silverman's past record, which he indicates is not sufficiently clean from a Zionist standpoint to warrant his selection.

Naturally the episode is unfortunate, as is every unsavory incident. However the important point is to clear the air of all charges. Many enemies of the Keren Hayesod and of Palestine will seize upon the incident to support their previously-made prejudices.

What is definitely indicated, and what may be expected, are other resignations. Morrison's charges are serious enough, and his position as a Zionist leader important enough, to cause the overthrow of Rabbi Wise as Z. O. A. president at the next election. Maybe those leaders whom Morrison calls "the many eminent men of ability who have from time to time been pushed out from Zionist activities only because they insisted upon exercising independent judgment and would not become 'yes men'" will align themselves into an opposition party. Whatever it is, Rabbi Wise's leadership is being put to the test. If he emerges unscathed, his position will be stronger than ever. It is to be hoped that for his own sake, and the sake of Palestine, he does not ignore the

Comments On Current Topics

Nazi Party's Statement of Policy on Jewish Question.—The Reich Government could have forced the Jewish papers which are allowed to appear in Germany to inform their co-racials abroad of the truth. They could also have passed a number of restrictions of one kind or another against the German Jews, in order to put a stop once and for all to this lying propaganda. If Germany does not resort to such methods, then it must be obvious that in pursuing the policy of complete separation from Jewry the Reich Government does not engage in a policy of persecution of a minority, but is merely concerned with changing the mode of life of the German Proof is not lacking that German Jewry has not deserved such leniency, nor does it show any gratitude for this policy of the German Government. Not only do the German Jews encourage the anti-German atrocity propaganda in almost all the civilized countries of the world, but it is notably the Berlin Jews who by their challenging behavior mobilize public opinion against them. This is not surprising in view of their large numbers. While, to cite only one example, the Chinese State has at most 25,000 to 40,000 Jews, Berlin alone has 250,000 Jews. China, it is as well to bear in mind in this connection, has a population of 444,000,000 while Berlin's population is only 4,200,000.

In the German Reich there are still 500,000 Jews. It seems still to be the opinion among the Jews in Germany that in spite of the German Aryan legislation, more openings exist in Germany, both economically and socially, than in certain other European and non-European states. Sooner or later, so it is believed, the blood protection laws will be anulled and the Jews will again enjoy complete freedom. It is forgotten that these laws are part of the National Socialist system. If the Nazi State has forbidden any intermarriage between Germans and non-Aryans, any going back on this legislation would endanger the authority of the Nazi State.

The separation of Jewry from the rest of the population is absolute. Its exclusion from the German people has only just begun and will be carred through to the very end. Even at the present time Jewish influence has not been entirely removed and must still be considered as a great danger to the welfare of the German people. There can, therefore, be no talk of any assimilation, but only a complete exclusion.

Di. Arthur Greiser, Danzig Senate President On Jews Of Danzig.-For Danzig-born Jews, we will institute the same laws as in Germany, while Jews who are foreign-born will have to leave Danzig whether they wish to or not. We prefer to see Danzig dwindle to nothing and become a small town in the German Reich, rather than to see it prosper under Jews.

The American Hebrew On "Jews And Communism".—The pastime of trying to identify Judaism with Communism is one usually indulged in by Nazi agitators without scruples. It is therefore a cause for concern that the official organ of the Catholic diocese of Springfield, Mass., should have sought to give respectability to this canard. Referring to the recent visit to Hollywood of Vittorio Mussolini, film-minded son of Il Duce, the Catholic Mirror proceeds to lay the blame for the hostile reception given to Mussolini upon "the Jewish film stars," with specific mention of Joan Crawford, Luise Rainer and Clifford Odets. "The Jews' grievance against Hitler is a legitimate one and the civilized world is with them," it says. "But their grievance against Mussolini is a fight picked by the Jews. Mussolini has offended not the Jewish race but the New Religion of the Jews, which is Marxism." In other words, if you're against Mussolini, you're a Communist. And since the majority of thinking Americans are probably against Mussolini, Communism has indeed gotten a very bad hold on the country.

From an anonymous contributor to "The Layman"-We are told that there are boards of trustees that consider their place of meeting so sacrosanct that rabbis are not permitted to tarry in the rarified, holier-than-thou atmosphere.

After all there is some defense for this satisfying point of view. Trustees deal with property, including unfortunately, debts on property, and what have rabbis to do with property? Obviously nothing. We are reminded of a story by the famous Dr. J. Leonard Levy. A minister prayed: "O Lord, keep me humble and keep me poor." The deacon who prayed next, said, "Yes, Lord, keep him humble; we will keep him poor."

Rabbi Taxay Head List Of Speakers

With representatives of every Jewish community in the State as guests, Indianapolis Jewry will be host Sunday, Nov. 28, to the State Palestine Day Conference in the Lincoln Hotel.

Included on the program for the convention will be addresses by the Hon. Morgan Jones, Member of Parliament, and Rabbi Marshall Taxay, of Terre Haute.

Opening with luncheon at noon in the Lincoln Hotel, the delegates will hear reports on Palestinian projects from cities throughout the State, and the address by Rabbi Taxay. The afternoon session, scheduled for 2 o'clock, will be in the form of a symposium on the two questions, "The Jewish Na-tional Fund", and "How Nation-alism Affects Our Lives In Both Palestine and The Diaspora". late afternoon session will follow, when the Hon. Morgan Jones will give a short talk.

Rabbi Elias Charry will preside at the banquet set for 6:30 p.m. Since the conference falls on the first evening of Chanukah, an im-pressive part of the program will be the lighting of thirty-five Chanukah lights by various organiza-tions and individuals in celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Jewish National Fund.

The Hon. Jones will deliver his principal address on "A Christian Looks At Jewish Problems in Palestine" at a mass meeting at 8 p.m. Jacob Weiss, president of the Indianapolis Zionist District, will preside at the luncheon meeting and the mass meeting.

Both meals will be kosher. A small charge will be made for registration to take care of the cost of the meals.

BIRTHDAY BIOGRAPHIES

He's A Human Dynamo, Which Is Why They Throw So Much Community Work In His Lap

The human dynamo his friends call him. Philip Kraft or Phil as he is better known, is exhibit "A" of what energy, persever-ance and ambition can accomplish ance and amotion can accomplish in this land of opportunity.

Born on May 25, 1893 in Bukovina, Rumania, Phil Kraft was one of a family of six with the boys controlling four votes. Up to 1911 he led the typical existence of all boys of his age. Life began at 18 for in the year 1911 he tore himself away from home he tore himself away from home and devoted family to start anew in the "golden land" where it was said that "Lei" (Rumanian money) grew on trees and were to be had just for the plucking.

But the young immigrant found the report slightly exaggerated. In fact one had to work, and to work hard for a few "Lei" and they weren't plentiful. Being in a position to sat-isfy his "sweet tooth" may have been one of the reasons Mr. Kraft took a job in a candy factory but later he found out that the boss had little regard for the clock and very little use for keys. fourteen hours or more a day was the regular schedule with all the candy you could eat thrown in.

But even a sweet job grows tiresome so Mr. Kraft turned to the skin game—the fur business. He learned to take pelts and by deft methods to fashion a beautiful, luxurious wrap for the wife of some cloak and suit manufacturer or notions magnate.

However, the selling instinct would not down. He wanted to be out meeting people and sell-ing them something. So he be-came salesman for his employer and some of the furs he sold may still be in existence, minus wear and tear and the need of a little hair tonic.

The year 1917 is outstanding in the memory of Mr. Kraft. The United States entered the war and Phil Kraft entered matrimony—the former having no con-nection with the latter. On Aug-ust of 1921 he heeded the call llis Levey, Buddy Segar, Jimmy Kaufman, Joseph Dee, Fdederick Feibleman and Gliria Gross.

A party, at which gifts will be distributed, will follow the play and will be in charge of the P.-T. A. All children have been asked to bring a gift, not to exceed 25 cents in cost, and wrapped in blue, white, or silver paper, to be exchanged the other pupils.

of Horace Greeley and headed for the Middle-West-Indianapolis, to be exact. Preceeding him had been three of his "landsmen" who had purchased the old Unger Bakery of this city and had changed its name to the New York Baking Co. Evidently the new name brought home-sickness to one of the partners for he re-turned to the big city. The vacancy left an opening for the up and coming young salesman. Investing $200.00 he became a partner in the business. That same year Mr. Kraft organized the South Side Baking Company,

The business then boasted of an old building and practically no equipment. Delivery equip-ment consisted of one spavined hay-burner and a rattling good wagon. Mr. Kraft was chauf-feur, salesman, cashier and clerk combined and by the dint of con-stant urging, prodding and per-suasion induced dobbin to step on the gas, so to speak. Five miles a bushel was considered good

It was really a one-horse business, but the horse didn't slow-Mr. Kraft's business pace. With a good product as a basis, the business grew under Mr. Kraft's management and business-get-ting ability until it became necessary to construct the present modern plant at 915-919 South Meridian Street, One horse grew into twenty trucks and a neighborhood business into one that covers entire central Indiana. Upon retirement of the other two Upon retirement of the other two partners from the business, Mr. Kraft became the sole owner in September of this year. He is now planning an addition which will double the plant's present capacity. He also operates the DeLuxe Cake and Pastry Shop on Maple Road Boulevard.

Despite the fact that he is a busy man, working as many as busy man, working as many as eighteen hours a day, he finds time for his family and communal affairs. He is a member of the B'nai B'rith, Kirshbaum Centhe Bhai Pith, Kishadum Cel-ter, Zionist Organization, and Beth El Men's Club. He is ceme-tery trustee of the Congregation Shara Tefilla, treasurer of the Jewish Credit Union, a director of the Jewish Welfare Fund, Jewish Educational Association and Jewish Family Service Society. Non-sectarian activities also have a call on his time. He is chairman of trustees of the South Side Civic Club and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Kraft is proof of the adage that if you want something done go to a busy man. Given a task he puts behind it the same driving energy that marks his business activities. With his time so completely filled with business and commun-al affairs, his hobby is naturally his home. In the beautiful home which he and his wife planned and built, he finds the relaxation he needs in the midst of his happy, devoted family. Next to enjoyment of his home and family he enjoys taking them on motor trips. He has three children, two girls and a boy, the eldest daugh-ter now attending the University of Indiana.

A History Of The Jews Of Indianapolis

This compilation of the early history of the Jewish congrega-tions of Indianapolis was prepared by the Sunday School class of 1936-37 of the Indianapolis Hebrew congregation. The pupils who obtained this information, under the direction of Douglas D. Brown, are Betty Lapinska, Herman Steinkeller, Carolyn Jaeger, Robert Borinstein, Phyl-lis Cooler, Henry Schildmeier, and Mildred Freeman.

While it is not intended to be a complete history of the cong-regations it gives an early out-line. It is hoped that the writers will be excused if any important names have been omit-ted.—The history of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation was published previously in a survey of the early Jewish community and will not be included in the present series. The editor is deeply indebted to the students mentioned for their labors.

Beth El Zedeck

Few people know that the exist-ing Beth El Zedec congregation is a consolidation of two Hebrew

The earlier organization, the Ohev Zedek, Hungarian congregation, was organized in 1885 by Israel Glick, and fifteen members. They held their meetings on the high holidays in the old Baldwin Block at Market and Delaware Block at Market and Delaware streets, now the Union Title Build-ing. Israel Glick, who was not a Rabbi, acted as both teacher and cantor. Among the early members were William Shane, William Schwartz, Adolph Marer, Meyer Klein, Adam Marer, Benny Glick, Sam Lorber and Beneth Lefko-Their first Rabbi was elected in 1889. He was Rabbi Federman, and he served until 1894 when Rabbi Klein succeeded him, and was in turn followed by Rabbi Jacob Hartman. During these early years, a cemetery at Kelly Street and the Bluff Road was acquired, and an association formed for members of the group. It is of interest that the members were charged a fee of only $1.00 per year which entitled them to a burial lot and a hearse and a cab.

In 1897 this growing group acquired, from the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, at a price of $10,000, its old temple on East and Market streets.

Taking up the other thread of the story. The Beth El Congregation had its inception in the fall of 1915 when Alexander Cohen called together a few Jewish persons, living in the vicinity of Six-teenth and Illinois Streets, for the purpose of worshiping on the high holidays. A house in the neighborhood was rented and just enough people attended to make a minyon. The following year, with increased attendance, a place at Twenty-first and Talbot Avenue was rented. In 1918, arrangements were made with the Oriental Masonic Lodge, on Twenty-first street and Central avenue, for the use of their hall to conduct the services on the holi-

Among those who were prom-Among those who were prominent in the establishing of Beth-El congregation were Joseph A. Borinstein, Louis J. Borinstein, Joseph A. Cohen, Samuel and Julian Electrical ius Falender, Isaac and Benjamin Marks, Herman Cohen, Jacob Solotken, Abraham Goodman, Jack A. Goodman, Louis Sagolowsky, Joseph Stolkin, Louis Finkelstein, A. J. Solar, and Isaac Wolf.

In 1920, it was necessary to seek new quarters, and a hall on Thir-teenth street and Illinois was rented. During this year, a committee, appointed by the group and headed by Joseph A. Borinstein, made arrangements to buy a lot on Thirtieth and Talbot streets, but it was later found inadvisable to build on

In 1922, an appeal for a building fund brought pledges amounting to $55,000. The president of the congregation, Josepha A. Borington in the congregation of the congre instein, died and was succeeded by Louis Sakowitz. Herman T. Co-hen was vice-president. In 1924 the cornerstone of the present building was laid. A second appeal was made for building funds, and in 1924, $30,000 was pledged. Jack A. Goodman was elected president and served in this capacity for ten years. The synagogue was completed in the early part of 1925, at a cost of $125,000. It was during this year that Abraham Goodman died, bequeathing $27,000 for the use of the new Temple. Rabbi Rabbi Bienefeld was succeeded by Rabbi Isidore Goodman and J. A. Goodman became president of the congregation. In 1928, Rabbi Milton Steinberg was called to the pulpit. After five years as its leader, he was succeeded by Rabbi Elias Charry, the present rabbi. Louis Sakowitz is now president. The congregation includes three hundred and fifty heads of families.

It has a Sisterhood, Men's Club, Youth group, Sunday school, and other associated organizations.

In the vestabule of the Temple hangs a bronze tablet which reads, "Chev Zedek congregation 1884-1927,—Congregation Beth El 1921-1927—Congregation Beth El Zedek, March 23, 1927.

VISITOR: The whisper's out that Dr. Chaim Weizmann, eminent hemist and Zionist chieftain, who has postponed more visits to the United States than the Duke of Windsor (and for altogether different asons) is really going to set foot on these shores in December..... o swing public opinion here to a pro-partition attitude, it's said......

And this famous betting commissioner is offering odds or five to one with few takers in sight) that this visit, too, will be called off at ne last moment.

PHILATELIC NOTE: One of these days, a small measure of jusice will be done to the memory of Haym Solomon, whose money kept he American Revolution from collapsing..... Don't be surprised if is portrait appears on some of our better stamps..... One of our ersonal snoopers at Washington asked Postman Jim Farley about it and was told that "sooner or later" a Solomon stamp will be issued mong a series to honor illustrious Americans of the past.....

TRUE STORY: Refugee Row is getting a good laugh out of this varn.... Seems a Nazi journalist was talking things over with a hard-boiled Fleet Street lad..... The Hitlerite said to the Londoner that no article could be published in a German paper unless the author held a card issued by the National Association of the German Press, a safeguard against any Jewish copy being published..... Said the Restricted pure a carrified pure a certified pure Aryan. My boy friend, alas, is a clever Jew. I get a card and send in something specially good of his under my name. Even the holy pages of the Angriff might then be soiled by Jewish work?.....

"Not at all," he replied hotly. "Responsibility rests on the editor. Obviously if he received something unusually intelligent, he would see the need of making a weight investigation."

Diviously if he received something unusually intelligent, he would see the need of making a special investigation.".....

MISH-MASH: Watch out for a big explosion in the American Zionist movement...... I. D. Morrison's resignation blast is making a profound impression..... Samuel Beber, Aleph Zadik Aleph president, had his picture printed in True Detective Mysteries magazine recently..... But it was a mistake...... And now the magazine has published an effusive apolgy and correction...... Seems Omaha Sam's pix was published over a story about a San Francisco graft investigapublished an effusive apolgy and correction.... Seems Omaha Sam's pix was published over a story about a San Francisco graft investigation involving a chap who, as luck would have it, also bears the name Sam Beber.... Zebulon, the Palestine seafaring society, has decided to name one of its boats "Avinoam Yellin" in honor of the slain education inspector.... And a child born the same day Yellin died (Oct. 23) has been named Avinoam and has been presented with a bible by Yellin's father, the distinguished Prof. David Yellin of Hebrew University.... Gerald L. K. Smith's more or less mythical "Committee of 1,000,000" is distributing enlistment blanks in New York's subways.... And is being flooded with the goofiest sort of "enlistments."... Many of them containing most uncomplimentary remarks.... Herr Hitler of Berlin, according to British journalist Ward Price in his new book "I Know These Dictators," is not such a misogynist as popular opinion would have it..... Adolf's attentions lately are being concentrated upon two young English women, the Mitford sisters, declares Price, who is known as a Hitler enthusiast.....

Fleet Of 25 Ships Seen For Palestine

YORK—Within the next several months a fleet of some 25 seagoing vessels, coastal steamers and fishing boats, flying the Jewish flag, will be plowing the Med-iterranean as the Jewish homeland extends its area of colonization into the unpartitioned area.

This fleet is included in the immediate plans of Nachshon Ltd., the martime organization of Palestinian Jewish labor, whose emissary, Mrs. Goldie Myerson, has arrived here to seek $550,000 from American Jewry through sale of 100,000 shares of stock.

The long range plans of Nachshon, as described by Mrs. Myerson in an interview wieh the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, are more ambitious. With $10,000,000, there could be established agro-fishing villages, fisheries and canning industries and canning industries and a great maritime in-

Author Digs Into Legend For Interesting Facts On Chanukah

(Continued from Page 1) from the Hebrew word meaning dedication, referring to the renewal of the Temple. Another version claims that the name comes from Chanok, or Enoch, a character in Genesis, the great-great-great-great grandson of Adam, who lived 365 years. Mystics associated Enoch, or Chanok, with light because his years on earth equalled the number of days of the sun's journey. In all astrological lore Chanok was identified with the sun, or with light; what better, then, that a feast of light should be named after him—as Chanukah?

Traditionally Chanukah has been a festival on which games with tops, or dreidels, were played. The traditional top was four-sided and had the Hebrew letters Nun, Gimmel, Hay and Shin inscribed on these sides. These letters are the initials of the Hebrew words Ness Godol Hoyoh Shom, "a great miracle occurred there." More practical minded persons intent upon using the top for games of chance, gave the four letters other mean ings, in German: Nicht, Ganz, Halb and Stell, so that which ever side was uppermost when the spinning top fell gave the spinner his instructions. These terms will of course be identified with "Nothing", "take all," "half" and "put," which form the essence of such games of chance games of chance.

Chanukah lights are lit in honor of the feast only, and not for any illumination which they may give. The rabbis therefore warned that it was forbidden to read by their light. The Talmud declares that the proper place for display of the Chanukah lamps is outside so that the buildings may be illuminated from without. Even if fire or damage is thereby caused, no legal responsibility is borne by the owner of the lamp, under Talmudic law, for he is fulfilling a religious obli-gation. In Persia Jews feared to antagonize the fire-worshippers, and the lamps were accordingly taken indoors and kept hidden.

Today the holiday begins with the lighting of one candle and an extra candle is added every night until on the last day there are eight candles, excluding the master-light, the Shamess. It was not al-ways thus. Rabbinical scholars once battled lenghily over this mat-ter. Disciples of the famous school of Hillel, Talmudic sage, insisted that this was the proper procedure; disciples of Shammai, his scholarly tion.

opponent, declared that it was proper to begin with eight candles and decrease the number each night until only one remained. For some time this controversy continued until finally the school of Hillel carried their point.

Chanukah is a holiday universally liked by children and adults. More and more the exchange of gifts is becoming an accepted feature of the holiday, though many utilize the day as a rationalization of what is really Christmas giving. Chanukah occurs so early this year that they will have difficulty making that association this time

Medical Fellowship To Honor Kirstein At 70

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency BOSTON—The name of Louis E. Kirstein, Boston's leading merchant, will be honored through a unique tribute by a group of the nationally known humanitarian's friends in the form of a fellowship at the Harvard Medical school to promote "scientific medical educa-

The scholarship fund is in honor of Mr. Kirstein's seventieth birthday which was observed July 9. The plans for the project have been under way since last summer. The fund, being started with $28,550, includes Justice Louis D. Brandeis, Prof. Felix Frankfurter, and Judge Julian W. Mack among the 89 donors.

Associating Mr. Kirstein's nam with a medical fellowship is felt appropriate recognition of the ac-tive part he took in the creation of the Beth Israel Hosptal, one of the most modern medical centers in the country. The hospital is one of the teaching hospitals for-both the Harvard and Tufts Med-ical schools.

There is another memorial to the Kirstein name in Boston. The bus-iness branch of the Boston Public Library was presented to the city by Mr. Kirstein as a memorial to his late father. Mr. Kirstein is chairman of the trustees of the Boston Public Library.

ALL-AMERICAN "11" NAMED BY JEWISH TELEGRAPHIC AGENCY

By MORRIS WEINER Sports Editor-Jewish Telegraphic

NEW YORK-The current grid on, rapidly drawing to a close, was a banner year for Jewish athletes on the football field. Not Not only were there more Jewish players in moleskins than ever before but the majority of outstanding elevens in the country this season boasted of first-string Jewish ball players. Each season (beginning in 1925) the Jewish Telegraphic Agency compiles a Jewish all-American football eeven from among the most brilliant performers of the nation. This selection during the last decade has become recognized as the all-star Jewish team. And, in the past ten years it has numbered in its galaxy such satellites as Benny Friedman, Harry Newman, Marchmont Schwartz, Izzy Weinstock, Dave Smukler, Barney Mintz, Fred Sington, Aaron Rosen-berg, Benny Lom and Abe Shper.

The Jewish fraternities, the athletic directors, graduate managers, coaches, and publicity men of these institutions have earned our depression for their splendid cooperation.

Sid Luckman, of Columbia, has been chosen quarterback of this steller aggregation because of his marvelous combination of field generalship; his shrewedness un-der fire; his commendable judg-ment in tight spots; and above all his superb passing, kicking, running.

In Marshall Goldberg of Pittsburgh we have one of the best ball carriers in the country. He is a flash on the gridiron. His bucks have pierced every major line in the country. Although his team could not score against the Fordham Ram, Goldberg's runs were the longest of the day and his score was nullified by a holding penalty.

Mushy Pollock' is considered the fastest fifty-yard man in the world. His wide sweeps and his piercing stabs at the line have been a prime factor in California's leading position on the Pacific Coast. In Pollock, the Golden Bears have a vicious tackler, a dangerous pas-ser, and an expert point converter.

Hal Hirshon, of U. C. L. A. is not new to a varsity berth. And, despite the fact that his team has had one of their most disastrous seasons in years the work of Hir-shon at the half-back post has been outstanding.

Bill Luftman and Hy Finkelstein ere chosen as wingmen because of their almost flawless brand of ball playing at Western Reserve and Brown respectively. Both of these boys are excellent pass receivers. Both are excellent tacklers and fast on their feet. Seldom sucked in on plays, they are down the field on every kick. Alex Schoenbaum and Abe Levine were selected as the key men on the lineb ecause of their splendid records in smashing plays behind the line; because they were diffi-cult to box in on off-tackle slants and because the coaches at Ohio State and Colorado have termed Alex and Abe the bulwarks of their respective teams. Both are tall and Schoenbaum's height is offset by Levine's weight. Despite the Monsky and Zimmerman of Alabama and Centenary came armed with letters of ntroduction from their coaches stating that each "is on my team in years. These two lads are playing with the two finest teams in the South. Despite their weight they are outstanding when it comes to running interference. In fact Monsky may run his team into the Rose Bowl while Zimmerman is almost certain to participate in the Sugar Bowl clash.

Morris Katz at center gets the nod from the Board of Selectors for his splendid career of two years on a team that has met some of the stiffest opposition in the country. The work of Katz at the pivot post in the past two seasons has marked him as one of the finest snapper-backers in the land. excellent fifth man in the backfield while on roving center assignhe is an expert tackler, a shrewd diagnotician of plays, and above all a great passer of the pigskin. Katz has not made a bad pass of the ball from center in two years of Varsity play.

ruler. The action, which has dragged on for several years and has been argued in Palestine's high courts as well as in the Privy Council at London, is believed to establish an important precedent for similar actions by heirs to recover vast tracts in Palestine registered as the Sultan's personal property. The Government had claimed the property on the grounds that it had been transferred to the Turkish Government and surrendered to Great Britain under the peace treaty follow-ing conquest of the Holy Land in the World War.

Should Ignore Anti-Semitism, First Lady Says

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency CINCINNATI—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt believes that the best way to handle anti-Semitism is to ignore it. The First Lady also advises Jews to guard against becoming embittered and withdrawing into themselves.

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed these opinions in an interview at Cham-paign, Ill., with Edward E. Grusd, managing editor of B'nai B'rith Magazine. The interview will appear in the forthcoming December issue of the Jewish monthly.

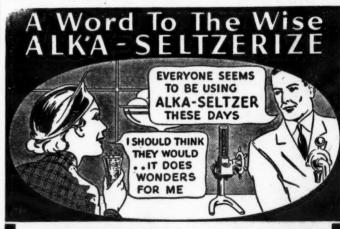

The overwhelming majority of Americans are not anti-Semitic she said after a lecture she delivered under the auspices of the B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation at the University of Illinois. "We have much less of that kind of prejudice here than exists elsewhere in the world," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"My advice to minority groups that suffer from prejudice is to ignore, so far as possible, the minority who practice it," she declared. "Of course, we must have education-a great deal of it-against such un-American practices. no minority should allow itself to become embittered by them. It should not withdraw into itself be-cause of them. That does not improve conditions."

Mrs. Roosevelt advised American Jews to hold their heads high with pride and retain their normal attitude of good-will to all other groups. "They should remember that, after all, their detractors form only a small minority," she

"Then you believe," asked Mr. Grusd, "that a minority that is discriminated against has a perfect right, in our country, to look with complete confidence to the majority for justice?"

"I should be very sorry," Mrs. Roosevelt emphatically replied, "if any minority did not have the right to look confidently to the majority for complete justice at all times whenever it is assailed."
